Meeting at Christian Church.

Eld John H. Brandt, of St. Louis, accompanied by his son-in-law and daughter, reached Columbia last Friday afternoon. Friday evening Mr. Brandt spoke to the members of the church, making his plans known for the series of services which are to continue two weeks. Sunday forenoon an immense audience heard him, and every night this week the church is expected to be crowded.

The speaker is a most captivating pulpit orator, and his explanations of the teachings of the Scriptures are plain, brought out in a most forcible manner. The chorus service, led by Mr. Berg, is inspiring, many new and beautiful songs being rendered. The Church members are at work and much good is expected.

On account of the church being crowded at each evening service, the ladies are earnestly requested to leave their hats at home.

There are living in this county today, all in fairly good health, whose ages are as follows: Dr. Wm. Voils, 103; Mr. James Bryant, 92; Mr. Washington Holt, 93; Mr. N. B. Dohoney, 92; Mrs. Nancy Acre, 95; Mrs. Easter Dohoney, 92. The ages of the seven persons aggregate 572.

Death of a Prominent Lawyer.

Judge M. O. Allen, who was one of Cumberland counties most prominent citizens and a lawyer of recognized ability, died at his late home, in Burkesville, Tuesday morning, March the 7th. He was about seventy-five years old, and had been a successful practicing attorney for more than fifty-years. He was a man of extensive reading, and was a most entertaining conversationalist. He was the father of Mr. Ed Allen, who lives near Danville, and Wm. Allen, of Cumberland county, the father-in-law of Mr. J. O. Ewing, who is a practicing attorney of Burkesville. The people of Cumberland county were very fond of Judge Allen. He was a wise counsellor and had been for many years a great friend to the unfortunate, those who had but little of this world's goods. He was strictly an honorable man, ready at all times to denounce those he knew to be practicing deception. His opinions were not kept from the public, expressing them freely upon all subjects, political and otherwise. He was an ardent Democrat, and had been from early manhood to old age. It will be a long time before Cumberland county sees his like, and for many years his memory will remain in the hearts of the people with whom he lived usefully, for so many years. In his passing the world has been made poorer.

Peace to his memory, a high-toned Kentucky gentleman. Judge Allen was a member of the Presbyterian Church of Burkesville, and he served the people of Cumberland county one or more terms as County Judge.

Scofield Barracks.

Honolulu, H. T., Feb. 20th
Editor News:

Honolulu may consistently be called the "Paradise of the Pacific," but if certain war department measures are carried out this cluster of isolated islands will soon be a more war like Eden than the original one.

Already there are the following fortified places on the Island of Oahu, of which Honolulu is the principal city and capital of the territory; Scofield Barracks the 5th, Cavalry entire and Battery of the 1st Field artillery Fort Shafter 1 Battalion of the 30th, Infantry, Forts Ruger, De Russy, Camp Verry and Diamond Head, garrisoned by Marines, Engineers, Signal corps and coast Artillery. In addition the entire 2nd Infantry and two more Batteries of Field artillery will soon arrive in Scofield Barracks, thus making the Hawaiian Islands a formidable stumbling block in the event of an Oriental invasion.

When it is remembered that Oahu contains only 600 square miles and that the population is something under 200,000 it may be clearly seen that not only are the Islands well protected by a strong fighting force, but in addition are well garrisoned for use in case the Panama Canal or Pacific coast are menaced by any pugnacious foreign force.

Scofield Barracks, is situated in the healthiest part of the Island and, from a Calvary point-of-view is the ideal spot for drills and manouvers on account of the miles and miles of terrace. The only higher parts of the Island are occupied by mountain ranges which form a barrier to the winds from the ocean behind them and form a perfect watershed for the water supply reservoir at their base.

The other Forts are nearer Honolulu and possess good strategic features, Diamond Head, in particular, is a second Gibraltar, its defences and living quarters faithfully copying, and, improving on, those of its massive predecessor. Fort Shafter is laid out in a pretty semi-tropical pass and forms one of the show features of the Capital city. On Oahu, the main sources of wealth, outside of mercantile pursuits in Honolulu, lay in the cultivation of sugar cane, pine apple and rice, of course, pine apples and sugar form the principal exports, for the rice (and tars, which is made into a native dish "poe") is for home consumption.

Wailua, about five miles from Scofield Barracks, has a very well liked Summer resort; being near the sea, sports rank equally to those in the States, games of all kinds, especially Polo, this causes the place to be heavily patronized. Honolulu city, takes good care of its tourist. There are its modern hotels cottages, and transportation facilities. The interesting places to see are: the aquarium, the National museum, Waikiki Beach, with its native surf-riders, the Poli, (scene of a famous battle) and the numerous parks. Yet the territory is not disturbed wholly by thoughts of war or business.

Honolulu has a "Great gay way" considering population and size, is worthy of mention, the theaters are well patronized. Sporting events are attended by enthusiastic patrons, Madame Cake sang late to standing room only, and last but not least, the annual Floral Parade on Feb. 22nd, is a feature which calls forth talent from all of the Islands and causes the participants much joy, and the bystanders much merriment and pleasure. The carnival, of which the Floral Parade is a part, last four days and is one continual round of pleasure.

In fact the cross roads of the Pacific is a mighty lively, mighty pleasant and altogether interesting and likeable portion of the Pacific regions. Yours truly,

O. L. McClure,
Sgt. Troop E. 5 Cavalry.

We wander back to the days of Adam and Eve, and think they did not have such communication in those days, or Adam would have been informed of the appearance of his Maker walking in the garden in the cool of the day, and would have been ready to have met the Lord, and not hid himself from His presence.

Constipation Cure Free

With the first signs of constipation you resort to the home methods of relief, such as hot or cold water on arising, lots of stewed fruit with your breakfast, etc., but what do you do when these fail?

The majority then start on salts and purgative waters, then change to cathartic pills, etc. If you have gone through these various stages you know they were all useless, so far as permanent results go. Now you should try just once again, but try something practical and sensible, a remedy made and intended for the purpose you are trying to accomplish. Such a remedy, as thousands can testify, is Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, which is guaranteed to be permanent in its results. Its ingredients are such that by a brief use of it the stomach and bowel muscles are trained to again do their work normally, so that in the end you can do away with medicines of all kinds. That it will do this Mr. G. Y. Dodson of Sanville, Va., will gladly attest, and so will Mrs. S. A. Hampton of Portage, O. To those who are still skeptical there is a way to prove these assertions without a penny of expense: Simply send your name and address to Dr. Caldwell and obtain a free sample bottle. After using it, if you are then convinced it is the remedy you need, buy a fifty cent or one dollar bottle of your druggist and continue to use it for a brief time until cured. The directions are simple and the dose is small. It is pleasant to the taste, does not gripe and is promptly effective, and these statements are guaranteed or money will be refunded.

This remedy is over a quarter of a century old and is personally taken by more druggists than any other similar remedy on the American market. Because of its effectiveness, purity and pleasant taste it is the ideal laxative remedy for children, women and old folks generally. Dr. Caldwell personally will be pleased to give you any medical advice you may desire for yourself or family pertaining to the stomach, liver or bowels absolutely free of charge. Explain your case in a letter and he will reply to you in detail. For the free sample simply send your name and address on a postal card or otherwise. For either request the doctor's address is Dr. W. B. Caldwell, R. 500 Caldwell building, Monticello, Ill.

Green County Must Pay.

A clash between Green county and the United States government was brought to a climax in the Federal court when attorneys representing the holders of bonds for which the Supreme Court has held Green county liable, asked that rules for contempt be issued against the County Judge and members of the Fiscal court of Green county. Unusual interest attached to the proceedings because it is the first time it has been invoked in Kentucky for fifty years, if ever, while it brings to a test the power of the United States government to enforce the power of the United States against a county.

Those against whom the rule was asked are Elliott Graham, the County Judge, and Magistrates G. P. Durrett, R. T. Close E. E. Coffey and J. J. Russell.

The situation grows out of bonds issued by Green county to aid the construction of the old Cumberland road, now a part of the L. & N. The case has been in the courts for years, and has twice been to the Supreme Court, which has decided finally that Green county is liable for the bonds.

But while Green county is held liable, the collection of the money due is another matter. Because of the possible necessity of collecting the tax, the county, has not had a sheriff for years, no one being willing to hold office.

Judge Evans said that he believed there had been a manifest evasion of the spirit of the court's order, but that he was unwilling to punish anybody for contempt until all doubt of purpose was removed. The result of this order is that the county authorities of Green county cannot levy any purpose unless they pay this bill for the bonds. The order was drawn and signed.

The Right Move.

A move in the right direction has been made at Hickman, this state, where a truck, -growing syndicate has acquired 1,000 acres, which it will cut up into small parcels and let out to those who will grow garden truck on the shares. Not more than five acres will be permitted in any one tract, and on each of these "patches" the syndicate will erect a neat frame dwelling. The demand from nearby cities for vegetables and small fruits will be met by the plans of these promoters who are confident their investment will prove a remunerative one. Intensive farming will be insisted upon, and there appears to be no reason in the world, save a succession of crop failures—and that is almost an absolute impossibility—why the highest degree of success should not attend the venture.

The Court of Appeals holds that if the heirs under a will accept the terms of the will and receive an inheritance, they are barred from any advantage that might occur in case the other heirs overthrow the will. It seems sound sense, otherwise all the heirs, except one could take what the will allowed them, while that one could sue to break the will and if he won all could profit alike. The Court of Appeals has a way of getting down to common sense and equity in the decisions it hands down from the bench.

Senator Bradley says his constituents in Kentucky have muddled him up about the Canadian reciprocity treaty and he does not know how he will vote on that question. The Senator usually is not undecided about anything and it is likely that he knows now how he will vote on the treaty but is not willing to take the public into his confidence at the present writing.

THE ADAIR COUNTY NEWS

Adair County News Company.

(INCORPORATED.)

CHAS. S. HARRIS EDITOR.

Democratic newspaper devoted to the interest of the City of Columbia and the people of Adair and adjacent counties.

Entered at the Columbia Post-office as second class mail matter.

WED. MARCH. 15, 1911.

It is not the purpose of the News to try to be conspicuous in the counsel of the Democratic party; it is outside of its real desires when it calls for a change of policy from the governing committee of the party, but in so doing, it feels that it is clearly within the limits of duty, and that necessity demands it, therefore, we again renew our plea for a platform convention. In another column will be found expressions from Democratic papers showing how wide spread is the demand that our party take a position on the questions that confront the people of this state. There was a time when the picture of the cock directed nearly every Democratic voter, and the log cabin bound to Republican nominees the full strength of that party, but those days have passed, in a large measure, and the intelligent voter demands something more than party emblems. In view of present conditions, in justice to the Democratic party, in the interest of progressive government, we fail to see why any party should be denied the right to meet in a collective capacity for its own advancement and the public good. Such a course is repulsive to independence, foreign to the true spirit of Democracy, cowardly in its inception and destructive in its final conclusions. It can not work to the good of any individual who may be on our ticket, and is bound to place us all in a defensive position. If Democracy is anything it is progressive and aggressive, and not a set of pie hunters and retreaters. If it is to be the ruling party in this state it must come from under the mask of disguise, step out into the open and stand and fight for the best interests of the people. A coward or incompetent may deserve sympathy, but never merit or win victory. Throughout the state, and particularly in certain sections, discontent is broadcast. This fact is bound to be clear to every citizen, and its effects should not be underestimated. How to bring good out of bad conditions; how to get union where discord prevails; how to secure victory in the face of defeat, now confronts our party. To seek to conceal the real situation will not suffice, to expect similar conditions with the Republicans to prevail, will not extricate, and to hope is mere folly. Something must be done if we win. It is not so much a question who wins in the primary, who compose our ticket, as it is, for what does the Democratic party stand? We can not take a position, as a party, unless it is done in a collective capacity. We have no recognized Czar, no boss or bosses. At this particular time, however, it seems that we merely have an Executive committee, the majority of which seem joined to methods contrary to the crying necessities of our conditions and party expediency. Appeal after appeal has been made for a platform convention and still we drift. Gentlemen of the committee, you can do much to clear the sky and aid your party in removing the trouble in time for a great victory and likewise you can obstruct its best interests, you can help bring peace and good will or you can eventually, force political revolt. The solution is largely up to you and, as we see it, you must call a platform convention or take the responsibility of the heaviest defeat our party has ever had. No longer can we hope to win on the record of any man, no longer profit by an appeal to passion and prejudice. By meeting in convention we can take a position that will disprove or justify the accusation of Hon Ben Johnson. It ought to be done. We can place ourselves before the people on the great questions that affect their interests and for the welfare of our State and institutions, this should be done. There is not a single reason offered why we should not meet in convention to formulate a platform. Democrats, everywhere accept your plan of nominating candidates but they want a platform and if denied this right many of them will not enter the fight as in days gone by. In short, it is suicidal to keep within the meets and bounds of your present policy and it is to be hoped that you will recognize the justness, as well as the necessity, of the thousands of true and loyal Democrats who ask for a privilege consistent with all well and rightfully organized bodies. It is to be regretted is you fail to do so.

Hartford Herald: By all means there should be a State Democratic Convention or some sort of gathering to formulate a platform upon which candidates may run. Political platforms are sometimes considered unimportant, but they at least serve to enunciate current party principles.

Danville Advocate: The short-sighted politicians controlling our Democratic State Executive Committee think they can go along without a party declaration of principles and make the people think they are for whatever the people want, that they can be all things unto all men. In vain is the net spread in the sight of any bird.

Lawrenceburg News: We have always been a Democrat and worked and voted for the nominee, even if he is our political or personal enemy. We are now much interested in the Democratic party in the State of Kentucky. But we must admit that we are becoming tired of the way the interests of the party are being handled by some of the so-called Democrats.

Marion Falcon: The Democratic State Committee in session in Louisville Friday changed the date of the primary for selecting nominees for State officers to July 1. The plan to change the primary to a convention was abandoned, as was a motion to call a convention to adopt a party platform. Without a platform and with dissension within the party ranks, Democracy truly is in a pitiful plight.

Murray Gazette: Here we have a lot of gentlemen running for State offices as Democrats and no provision for a platform is to be made. It would be a nice thing, now, wouldn't it, to have a lot of nominees on a platform of principles in which they did not believe and could not indorse. Watt Hardin went down with a platform pulling one way and Watt pulling another. Hager was defeated the Democratic party. What will it profit any man to get a nomination and lose his election! Why should any true Democrat take desperate chances to place a personal friend in a losing position? We may be wrong in our judgment but there is a superabundance of evidence to warrant the statement that party success is jeopardized, if not destroyed, by the majority part of the Executive Committee.

The Executive Committee.

In refusing to call a Convention to adopt a platform, the Executive Committee is being severely censured. Read the following expressions:

Georgetown Times: If it were possible it would be a good thing to "cut out" this Executive Committee. Such action would be a good move in the interest of the party.

Owensboro Messenger: There seems to be a determined effort all over Kentucky to have a convention or "mass meeting" of Democrats for the purpose of adopting a platform for the nominees of the primary of July 1. By all means let us have a platform.

Shepherdsville News: We can win, and win in a walk, but it will require intelligent work to do it. So let the powers that be call a convention of representative Democrats and promulgate representative platform, put our candidates on it and flail the stuffing out of the enemy.

Enquirer, Campbellsville: It seems that our neighbor, James Garnett, has his race for the Democratic nomination for Attorney General won, hands down. He is too well known in this section of the state as a good lawyer, loyal Democrat and popular and affable gentleman for the editor of this paper to enter upon any sketch of the man. Suffice it to say that his name on the ticket will add as much weight as any one who could possibly be chosen for nominee for Attorney General. Coming, as Garnett does, right next door neighbor to Ben Johnson's district and home county, if there is any disaffection among any of Johnson's old supporters, who feel that Johnson has not had a square deal, then Jim Garnett's being on the ticket will do more to allay such a disaffection, if it does exist, than any other possible selection.

Lebanon Enterprise: Friday, settled the matter definitely and all hope of allowing the Democrats of the State an opportunity to make a platform and frame a declaration of principles has vanished. The committee, however, changed the date of the primary election from May 27 to July 1. To honest Democrats, and to those who have grown old in party service, the persistent determination of the governing authorities to not allow the members of the party an opportunity to assemble in convention and proclaim to the world the principles for which they stand, is both strange and incomprehensible. In Kentucky a large independent vote now exists which professes no allegiance to either party. This condition of affairs has been brought because there was no platform at all. Is history to repeat itself? It looks mighty like it.

Taylor County Enquirer: If the Democrats of Kentucky don't want to go to polls in November doomed to defeat, they should at once set about providing a platform. There are still some one who will vote "the ticket" simply because it is labeled "Democratic" and stands under the Rooster, but there are others who will not follow blindly but demand to know beforehand for what measures the party stands. What reforms it proposes to put through. If the Democratic Committee is actuated by the party's interest, they will call a platform convention before the time set for the primary. Let us hope for the party's welfare that this will be done.

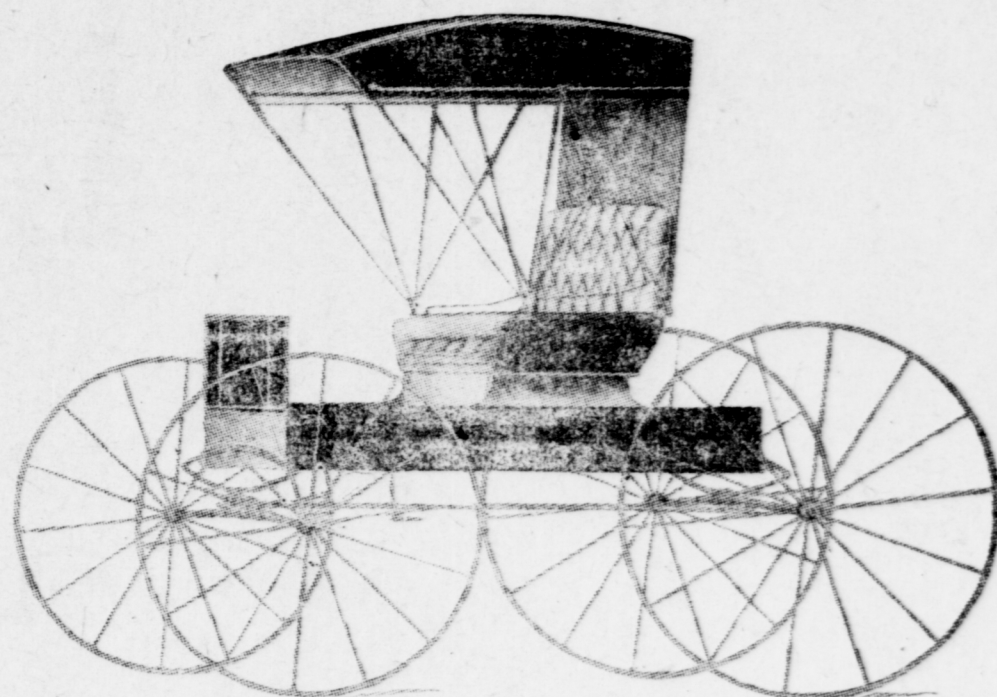

The Democrats of Henry county met at New Castle and passed the following resolutions:

"Whereas, The State Democratic Committee has ordered a primary election to be held July 1, 1911, to select candidates for the various State officers; and

"Whereas, There has been no platform of principles declared by the State Democracy in recent years; therefore be it

"Resolved, That we, the Democrats of Henry county, ask the State Democratic Committee to call mass meetings in the various counties to select delegates to act with the committee and the candidates for the various offices at a meeting before the primary, to adopt a platform and publish to the State principles that will be put in force in case the party is successful at the polls."

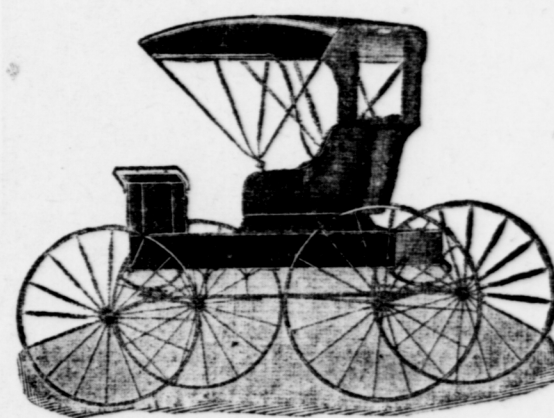

about in years past by the headstrong and obstinate course pursued by the State committees of both the Democratic and Republican parties in their eager desire to advance the interests of one set of candidates over that of another. The result has been that honest, self-respecting men who love liberty and good government more than they do wily and oily tongued politicians seeking positions of honor and trust, have become disgusted and now vote for principles and not for men. This large and constantly increasing vote holds the balance of power in the State. Neither party can win without their aid. Not to recognize their strength and influence is both foolish and puerile. Without a platform and without any declaration of principles, can the nominees of the Democratic party appeal to this independent vote and stand any chance of securing their support? Other questions of a serious nature are now engaging the minds of our people. Many laws affecting their lives, liberty and property need changing. Measures looking to the development of the State's resources should be framed. The taxing laws under which we live should be remodeled. A system of internal improvements is badly needed. Our school system is not what it should be. Our penal and charitable institutions need legislation. The management of our penitentiaries should be vested in a Board of Control, non-partisan in nature, and unbiased by political considerations. These are the present living, important questions now engaging the minds of the people, and candidates seeking their suffrage must express their position as to the best manner of dealing with these propositions. There must certainly exist a strange condition of affairs when the governing authorities of a great party in one of the States of the Union, are so engrossed and are more interested in deciding how to select their nominees than in framing a declaration of principles in which these nominees shall profess allegiance. If platforms and declarations of party principles are to be sacrificed for individual and personal favorites to fill public offices, then the Democratic party is straying into undiscovered lands and following wreckless and dangerous leaders. If disaster overtakes the party at the coming November election, the blame will rest solely on the heads of the Democratic State Executive Committee. We wish to sound a note of warning. Time will prove whether or not we possess the power of a prophet.

Truthful Words.

The following was read by a Kansas Governor some years ago on the eve before election but will bear repetition:

Along in November, when chill was the weather
Two ballots were cast in a box together.
They nestled up close like brother to brother,
You couldn't tell one of the votes from the other.
The prohibition man, could be truer,
Kept busy all summer denouncing the brewer.
But his fever cooled off with the change in the weather,

And late in the autumn they voted together.
The Sunday school man had always been noted
For fighting saloons except when he voted,
He piled up his prayers with a holy perfection,
Then knocked them all down on the day of election.
The foxy old brewer was cheerful and mellow;
Said he, "I admire that Sunday school fellow.
He's true to his church, to his party he's truer,
He talks for the Lord, but he votes for the brewer."

One Way to Build a Good Road.

Everybody is in favor of good roads, as an abstract proposition, but when it comes down to the concrete—that is to say, to sand and gravel,—there are difference in opinion. Some Kentuckians there are who declare themselves strongly for good roads, but say they do not know how to go about getting them.

One way to go about it has been exemplified recently by the Federated Woman's Club of Brandenburg. The members of that live organization felt the need of a good road from Brandenburg to Weldon, a station on the Louisville, Henderson & St. Louis railroad. Brandenburg has no railroad, and when the citizens of that town go traveling they either take a steamboat or drive over to Weldon to take the train. Meade county mud possibly is a few degrees worse than the mud anywhere else in Kentucky. Anyhow, if there is muddier mud or stickier mud or more aggravating mud in Kentucky it will have to be discovered when somebody opens a new mine. The male citizens of Meade have been handling the road question the same way that many other Kentucky counties have been handling it. Mud multiplied by mud produces more mud, but the male citizens of Meade didn't seem to know it. The women woke up to the situation, first and they determined to 'pike' the road from Brandenburg to Weldon. They raised more than $1,200 by private subscription and they asked the Fiscal Court to do the rest. The court came across with an appropriation of $3,000 as an evidence of good faith. The road will be completed by the early summer. Next winter it will be possible to travel from Brandenburg to Weldon without breaking a hamstring or straining a single tree. A wagon will not be a load for a four-horse team, and walking will not be an impossibility when a big thaw comes.

That is one way of getting a good road. There are other ways, but they involve the expenditure of time and money. Good roads do not grow of themselves and they do not evolve from repeated drubbings of mud. Why should fiscal courts continue wasting money on dirt roads year after year with no move for real improvement? Why, at least, do they not build a few miles of good road for an object lesson? Why should intelligent men hold their hands in helpless fashion and wait for the women's clubs to show them how to build roads? —Courier Journal.

NEW TALES THAT ARE TOLD

Had No Regrets.

The late Archie Williams, the well known Topeka lawyer, was an artist with sharp repartee. One time he went to a small Kansas town not very far from Topeka to attend court. This town is a typical country village, and little or nothing ever causes a ripple on its "dull level." It is a good town as towns of its size go, but a rather trying place for a city bred to spend any considerable period of idle time.

Williams' business kept him in the town for two days, and a lot of time hung heavy on his hands, for one of the days was Sunday.

"Fine place this," said a native to him.

"Yes," said Williams rather shortly. He didn't seem at all eager to open a discussion concerning the merits of the hamlet.

"Real good place," continued the native.

"Oh, yes," said Williams, and he again showed no inclination to discuss the subject.

"You like it, do you?" asked the native.

"Like it! Like it!" answered Williams very gently and softly. He got up and laid his hand on the native's shoulder. "Like it! Why, my dear, good friend, I like this town so well I could die here."

"Why—why—I'm glad to know that. But how does it appeal to you so much as that?"

"Why," said Williams, still very gently, "I never saw a place in all my life, and I have lived a good many years, which I could leave with so few regrets."—Kansas City Journal.

THE JOKE WAS WHOLLY UNINTENTIONAL

Remarkable Floral Emblem at the Funeral of a Reporter.

Jacob A. Riis tells an anecdote of a reporter detailed to police headquarters by a well known newspaper. His special forte was fires. He is dead, poor fellow! In life he was fond of a joke, and in death it clung to him in a way wholly unforeseen. The firemen in the next block, with whom he made his headquarters when off duty, so that he might always be within hearing of the gong, wished to give some tangible evidence of their regard for the old reporter, but, being in a hurry, left it to the florist, who knew him well, to choose the design. He hit upon a floral badge as the proper thing, and thus it was that when the company of mourners was assembled and the funeral service in progress there arrived and was set upon the coffin in full view of all that triumph of the florist's art, a shield of white roses, with this legend written across it in red immortelles: "Admit within fire limits only."—Portland Spectator.

The Huckster.

Matthew de L. Rogers, the handwriting expert of Cleveland, recently convicted by his testimony alone a will forger.

"My own knowledge," said Mr. Rogers to a reporter, "shone out by contrast with the ignorance of the other side. The opposing lawyer in his benighted cross examination of me really made me think of the Cleveland huckster."

"This huckster was giving evidence in a damage suit against an automobilist."

"The auto," he stated confidently, "was going over 100 miles an hour."

"But that's nearly two miles a minute," said the judge.

"No, yer honor," the huckster contradicted.

"Look here, my man," said the judge, "you know how many minutes there are in an hour, don't you?"

"The huckster hesitated, then said frankly:

"Well, yer honor, I ain't had much education—let's have your reckonin' of it."
